FFA Chapter Gets Highest Award

The Appomattox FFA Chapter has been designated as a gold emblem chapter by the National FFA Organization. This is the highest recognition that a local chapter can receive for its accomplishments. Receiving the coveted gold emblem at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, as pictured above, was Sammie Scott, president of the Appomattox FFA Chapter along with his advisor, R. B. Carter. The Appomattox Chapter was one of 63 FFA chapters among the more than 8500 chapters throughout the nation that was so honored.

Rebels Bow To Brosville, 27-0

DANVILLE —The Brosville Braves held the Appomattox Rebels scoreless while staging their third Group II, District IV victory. This upset left Appomattox with a 3-1-1 standing in district play.

Kenny Collins scored the first two Brosville touchdowns. He ran 7 yards for the first and sprinted 55 yards for the second. The extra points were good as Glasgow and Collins drove over from the three.

In the second quarter the Rebels drove to the Brosville one foot line, but just could not go over for the TD.

At the half the score was Brosville 14 and the visitors 0.

Near the end of the third stanza the Rebels penetrated to the Braves' 27 yard line, but ran out of steam and lost the ball to Brosville on downs.

Brosville returned to the scoring column on a three yard run by Stephen Raines. The score was tied, 21-0, as Kenny Collins plunged over for the PAT. With time running out, Lee Glasgow raced 16 yards for the last tally of the game.

The Rebels fought hard, but were weakened by the loss of many injuried players.

This Friday night Appomattox travels to Gretna. Let's follow and support our team while they are on the road.

The RAD subcommittee designated to investigate special Centennial projects and related county improvement has met twice since its organization last month. Mrs. W. W. Burke has been named chairman, with Mrs. Martin Webb, secretary. Mrs. Burke says that monthly meetings are planned, with additional meetings when the need arises.

Other members of the RAD Centennial commitee are Dr. J. A. Mathews, RAD head and ex office chairman, plus Mrs Flora Belle Williams, Pamplin; State Senator Charles T. Moses, Mrs. Mary Grey Holland, Mrs. Vi Harwood, J. A. Smith, all of Appomattox; and the Rev. John Leslie Hart, of Pamplin.

New Barber Shop Opens

Patrons of Evans Barber Shop about Sunday afternoon may have been surprised to find it shut down and dark. But door, amid carpenters, plumbers, electricians, it was business as usual, as haircuts were given in the new R. T. Nash, Jr., of Appomattox was in line, followed by Lonnie Reynolds, above in the chair with A. B. Evans, wielding the clippers. Lewis Edward on at the far left, a fellow barber and veteran of 16 years service at the shop, helped to greet visitors. In the foreground are Vernon Massie, 6, and his father, Ray, enjoying the comfort of the new chairs as they wait their turn. A. B. Evans, III, will be full-time assistant to his father in the shop, and Bill Carawan, of Forest, will help take care of Saturday trade. G. B. Buckaman, former mayor of Appomattox, is owner of the shop. J. E. Sears Co., of Appomattox was builder and contractor.

Robinsons Join James River 'Digging' Event

The Calvin Robinsons of Appomattox joined members of the Archeological Society of Virginia Sunday on the Western banks of the James River near Bent Creek to observe how amateur archeologists dig for Indian relics. Indian hoes, a hatchet, and various bits of Indian pottery were uncovered during the two day session, Saturday and Sunday.

The digging site is the proposed location for the new bridge at Bent Creek and is located on the property of Harry Bolden, a farmer of Nelson County. Each group was instructed to dig a five foot square, then to dig ten inches, sifting the earth as they dug — then six inches more, which is the area where the archeologists expected to and did find Indian relics.

Indian fireplace Uncovered

Dr. L. O. Snead, president elect of the Va. Archeological Society, and a radiologist of Richmond aided R. M. Owen, State highway inspector of Richmond and L. L. East, of Lynchburg, a Babcock and Wilcox employee, in uncovering an Indian fireplace. Colonel H. A. MacCord president of the group, says that there is very little known about the Indians in the Bent Creek area. Even their name and tribe is unknownMacCord says, since by 1700 when white settlers arrived in the area, the Indians had lost their identity.

Entire families were present for the expedition. Many of them stayed at the Gladstone YMCA, and others camped out. MacCord issued a cordial invitation to all interested persons to join the Va. Archeological Society and to join in other "Digging sessions" for relics of interest.

Cuban Refugee To Speak Sat. In Evergreen

A Cuban refugee and her husband will be the guests of the Evergreen Baptist Church Saturday evening at 7:30. Mrs. Cecilia Albourne, a pharmacist and chemistry teacher, has told the local committee that she is eager to speak to Americans about the "dangers of Communism".

Described as a vivacious, good looking woman in her 30's, Mrs. Albourne escaped from Cuba about two years ago. Her husband, a physician, is now associated with a Norfolk hospital. Dr. Albourne may come, if his schedule permits. They will be the week end guests of Mrs. Clara Garrett, of Evergreen. Miss Mabel Farmer, neice of Mrs. Garrett, has helped make arrangements for the visit. Miss Farmer is a cousin of Mrs. Kenneth St. John, president of the Evergreen Baptist WMU, sponsors for the event. Mrs. St. John has issued a cordial invitation to the entire community on behalf of the WMU to be on hand for Mrs. Albourne's address.

Ruritans Elect New Officers

91 Dogs Given Rabies Vaccine

The Rabies Clinic sponsored by the Appomattox County Health Department gave preventive shot to 91 dogs Tuesday. Department personnel seemed well pleased with the response.

Ruritans Take Excursion

Ruritans of Gladstone and their guests took a trolley scenic excursion during Ladies Night Monday as C & O Trainmaster J. F. Bickers, above left, showed full-color movies of the Gladstone-Richmond run taken by railroad buffs a last year. One of four such excursions offered, these films were made by members of the National Railways Historical Society, the Old Dominion chapter. Also pictured with Bickers are Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Lariew, and R. C. Tribble, Jr., assistant trainmaster of Richmond. Lariew is president of the Gladstone Ruritans and general secretary of the Gladstone YMCA. Special guests from Afton, were Lt. Governor and Mrs. John C. Coleman of the Woodrow Wilson District. Ruritans; also, Reverend and Mrs. G. M. Proffitt, of the Liberty Baptist Chapel and Gladstone Baptist church, Gladstone. Thirty members and guests were served turkey dinners and all the trimmings amid a setting of Halloween pumpkins and colorful autumn leaves.

Gladstone Man Rebuilds Shop

GLADSTONE, October 20— J. W. Morris is putting the finishing touches to a new shop at the rear of his property in Gladstone. A cabinet maker and repairman since his retirement some years ago, Mr. Morris lost his shop and most of its contents in an early morning fire September 10. Neighbors and friends of Mr. Morris say that pride in his new shop takes second place, however, to another event of importance in September, the birth of a granddaughter, Kimberly Dawn, on Sept. 27.

New Booklet Includes Local Events Of War

Virginia's Civil War Commission announced today the publication of a one-page sheet of discussion and factual questions as a companion piece to the booklet, Iron Gate To The Confederacy.

The 6-page illustrated booklet describes Virginia's role in the Civil War. Written by Dr. James I. Robertson, Jr., a native Virginian, Iron Gate TO The Confederacy was published by the Commission in 1961.

The question sheet will accompany all future sales of the booklet and is available free to teachers upon request to the Commission, Centennial Center, Richmond, Va. 23219.

First Lot Sold By Hickory Grove Developers

The first lot has been sold in a housing development located on Rt. 460 on the eastern edge of the town of Appomattox. Named "Hickory Grove Acres', the area consists of 118 lots 50 feet by 150 feet owned jointly by Fred Wooldridge and Mrs. C. M. Evans. Wooldridge is a home builder and painter. Mrs. Evans is owner and manager of Hickory Grove, a boarding home, in Appomattox; also a nursing home and home for the aged in Spout Spring.

Wooldridge says that the development is marked out with 50 foot frontage per lot so that builders may purchase two or more for homes.

Property owners may face Annie Street to the west or choose property on Pine Stret, Edgewood Street, and Hickory Stret. Hickory has not yet been opened, but grading and surfacing is already in progress on Pine and Edgewood streets All three of the above named will connect with Ethel Stret, running parallel with 460, Woolridge said.

Originally platted with all streets running parallel with 460, the development was surveyed and marked off with streets running approximately north and south. Surveying and other details have taken two years, said Wooldridge.

Homework, Lunches, "No Shoes"

Teacher Panel Answers Parents' Question; Book Fair Announced

The annual November Book Fair will be held during the next scheduled meeting, members were told Thursday night as the Appomattox Elementary P-TA heard a variety of reports and took part in a teacher-parent discussion of subjects ranging from homework to the duties of room mothers.

Halloween night's carnival plans were explained by Graham Pitsenberger; Mrs. Grace Taylor's room won the attendance prize. The P-TA voted to continue the contest for another six months. The group also voted to charge 50c admission to the spring historical drama for all who do not present an elementary P-TA membership card.

Four-Member Panel

Miss Nola M. Burkey, 4th grade teacher; Mrs. Jean Hesson, 7th grade, Mrs. Lucie Staples, 1st; and Randall Hill, principal, formed the panel for a question - answer session.

When asked about a recommended time, per subject, for homework, Mrs. Staples said "none for first grade", except taking home school work for parents to see, Miss Burkey suggested 30 minutes total for 4th grade with "creative" types of activities recommended. Mrs. Hesson said one hour, for an average total, for 7th graders.

Playground Equipment

The panel considers a jungle jim relatively safe for playground use, but rules out swings and slides. About the P-TA, Mr. Hill said that the moral support and interest shown by the P-TA is "very good" for a school. As a future project, Mr. Hill recommended the hard surface for a basketball court.

Mrs. Margaret Glover said that one advantage to a combination grade is that the students learn self reliance and "self-study."

When asked why students have only twenty minute lunch period, Mr. Hill said that authorities recommend twenty minutes. And the children are asked to take off street shoes in the auditorium during play activities Hill said in order to preserve the flooring. The principal explained that ever since the grade school was built there has been a feeling toward "preserving the beauty" of the school and school grounds. He said he is quite in sympathy with these efforts. Children, he said, are encouraged to bring tennis shoes or heavy socks for wear during special activities. About room mothers the panel explained that they help in the P-TA nursery's assist during parties, and can be of real value in assisting teachers to advertise P-TA activities.

Should 7th graders go to high school dances? Mrs. Hesson said "no" — that students should wait until they are in high school. However, she said, parents must decide for themselves.

In support of the 7th grade graduation exercises, Mrs. Hesson explained this is a simple, yet meaningful ceremony for the graduates, and for some may be the only graduation they will participate in.

In response to a criticism that teachers do not encourage children to invite parents to the P-TA meetings, Mrs. Hesson explained that virtually all of the teachers do announce the meetings, print notices on the blackboard, and that the school sends out letters.

Work To Begin "Immediately" At Carver-Price

The Board of Supervisors met with School superintendent Earl Smith and chairman of the School Board DeWitt Evans Tuesday evening and approved J. E. Jamerson and Son's bid of $257,800 for the proposed addition to Carver - Price School

Supt. Smith said that construction would start immediately on the eleven classrooms, library, and auditorium Architects fees will raise total cost to $254,262. Supervisors gave their approval to an application for an additional Literary Fund loan of $54,262, to cover the difference between actual costs of the project and a previous loan approval of $200,000 requested last spring.

Three Permits Issued By Town Council

APPOMATTOX, Oct. 21 —Permits for three new homes were granted by Town Council meeting Monday night. One is for Willie Mayberry, East Confederate Blvd; another for the Ben Marshall, on Lee-Grant Avenue; and another for M. H. Mayberry on Annie Street.

Council was informed that three signs indicating the business district have been set up at the intersections of Rt. 460 and Oaklelgh, Court, and Church Streets.

Council heard a request for new sidewalks on a section of Main Street. The request was referred to the Streets and Lights committee Members did not take any action, but did discuss water and sewage improvements. Appomattox has had sufficient water supply for all demands, despite the prolonged drought.

Centennial Group Offers War Booklet

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The U. S. Civil War Centennial Commission announced today publication of the "The Civil War" a handbook designed primarily for elementary and high school students.
